

Investors who brought mutual funds from Morgan Stanley, the nation's second largest securities firm, didn't know that the company was taking secret payments from some fund companies to promote their products, according to allegations that resulted in a $50 million settlement agreement against yesterday with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In many cases, those same investors were actually footing the bill, indirectly, for the slanted recommendations, the SEC said. Some of the 16 fund companies whose products were pushed by Morgan brokers paid for the marketing help by letting Morgan handle some of their stock and bond trading. The millions of dollars in commissions earned by Morgan on that trading came out of mutual fund share owners' profits, according to the SEC.

Morgan said yesterday that companies in its "Partners Program" included . . . MFS Investment Management."

* * *

Yesterday's settlement "goes to show that the mutual fund managers as well as broker dealers have too often viewed mutual fund shareholders as sheep to be sheared," said Sen. Peter Fitzgerald (R-Ill.), who is investigating the industry. "Congress has to figure out the variety of ways people are being sheared so that we can stop it."

56. On January 14, 2003, The Wall Street Journal published an article under the headline, "SEC Readies Cases On Mutual Funds' Deals With Brokers." Citing "a person familiar with the investigation," the article notes that the SEC is "close to filing its first charges against mutual fund companies related to arrangements that direct trading commissions to brokerage firms that favor those fund companies' products." The article stated in pertinent part as follows:

The SEC has been probing the business arrangements between fund companies and brokerage firms since last spring. It held a news conference yesterday to announce it has found widespread evidence that brokerage firms steered investors to certain mutual funds because of payments they received from fund companies or their investment advisers as part of sales agreements.

Officials said the agency has opened investigations into eight brokerage firms and a dozen mutual funds that engaged in a longstanding practice known as “revenue sharing.” Agency officials said they expect that number to grow as its probe expands. The declined to name either the funds or the brokerage firms.

The SEC said payments varied between 0.03% and 0.04% of sales and up to 0.25% of assets that remained invested in the fund.

* * *

People familiar with the investigation say regulators are looking into examples of conflict of interest when fund companies use shareholder money to cover costs of sales agreements instead of paying the sale costs themselves out of the firm’s own pockets. The boards of funds, too, could be subject to scrutiny for allowing shareholders’ commission dollars to be used for these sales agreements. In other cases, the SEC is probing whether funds violated policies that would require costs associated with marketing a fund to be included in a fund’s so-called 12b-1 plan.

Id. (Emphasis added).

[Emphasis added.] The March 16 Wall Street Journal article also added that MFS had stopped paying brokerage commissions to encourage brokers to push MFS funds, noting that the SEC is currently investigating the arrangement.

The Prospectuses Were Materially False and Misleading

57. Plaintiff and other members of the Class were entitled to, and did receive, one or more of the prospectuses (the “Prospectuses”), pursuant to which the MFS Funds shares were offered, each of which contained substantially the same materially false and misleading statements and omissions regarding 12b-1 fees, commissions and Soft Dollars.

58. The Statement of Additional Information, referred to in certain of MFS Funds' prospectuses and available to the investor upon request, stated as follows with respect to Soft Dollars and directed brokerage:

As permitted by Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, the Adviser may cause the Fund to pay a broker or dealer which provides brokerage and research services to an adviser an amount of commission for effecting a securities transaction for the Fund in excess of the amount other brokers or dealers would have charged for the transaction if the Adviser determines in good faith that he greater commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services provided by the executing broker or dealer viewed in terms or either a particular transaction or the Adviser's overall responsibilities to the Fund and its other clients.

Consistent with the Advisory Agreement and applicable rules and regulations; the Adviser may consider sales of shares of the Fund and of other funds or accounts of the Adviser as a factor in the selection of broker-dealers to execute the Fund's portfolio transactions.

[Emphasis added.]

59. The Prospectuses failed to disclose and misrepresented, inter alia, the following material and damaging adverse facts which damaged plaintiff and other members of the Class:

a. That MFS Company authorized the payment from fund assets of excessive commissions to broker dealers in exchange for preferential marketing services and that such payments were in breach of their fiduciary duties, in violation of Section 12b of the Investment Company Act, and unprotected by any "safe harbor";

b. That MFS Company directed brokerage payments to firms that favored MFS Funds, which was a form of marketing that was not disclosed in or authorized by the MFS Funds Rule 12b-1 Plan;

c. That the MFS Funds Rule 12b-1 Plan was not in compliance with Rule 12b-1, and that payments made pursuant to the plans were in violation of Section 12 of the Investment Company Act because, among other reasons, the plan was not properly evaluated by the Trustee Defendants and there was not a reasonable likelihood that the plan would benefit the company and its shareholders;

d. That by paying brokers to aggressively steer their clients to MFS Funds, MFS Company was knowingly aiding and abetting a breach of fiduciary duties, and profiting from the brokers' improper conduct;

e. That any economies of scale achieved by marketing of the MFS Funds to new investors were not passed on to MFS Funds investors;

f. That defendants improperly used Soft Dollars and excessive commissions paid from MFS Funds assets, to pay for overhead expenses the cost of which should have been borne by MFS Company and not MFS Funds investors; and

g. That the Trustee Defendants had abdicated their duties under the Investment Company Act and their common law fiduciary duties, that they failed to monitor and supervise MFS Company and that, as a consequence, MFS Company was able to systematically skim millions and millions of dollars from the MFS Funds.
